Under separate cover I am sending a compilation of your ancestors. Had intended to insert some hand made maps of Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri for reference purposes and also a chart. However if I held the dope I am sending until I found time to add the trimmings you might never get it. The numbers after the names are interpreted as follows; - The first number indicates the generation, calling Farrar 1. That makes her father and mother 2, her grandparents 3, etc. The second number indicates the numerical standing of any ancestor (whatever that is). For example Farrar's father is 2.1, her mother 2.2, Her grandfather Kennett 3.3, her grandmother Kennett 3.4, her grandfather Clarke 3.5, her grandmother Clarke 3.6 etc.

BYRD, Mary, possibly daughter of William Byrd and Mary Horsmanden

Born

Married John Rogers 1716

Died

Was a red headed Scotch beauty who is supposed to have brought the red hair into the Clark family.

Her parentage as given above is mere speculation on the part of R.H.F. and needs verification. Names, localities and dates seem to indicate that it might be correct.

Later, (1955), It is.

Benjamin 1750, Married Elizabeth Lee

Elizabeth

His son Benjamin was the father of 31 children, 2 daughters and 29 sons. Seven of these died in infancy. Of those who survived, two of the sons, William and Marston Greene, removed West and became prominent in early Indiana history. It is probable that Benjamin Clark had 2 wives and that one of them was a Miss Greene. It will be observed that the middle name of one of his sons was Greene. There is a tradition that she was a sister or relative of Gen'l Greene of the Revolutionary War.

"The history of the remote ancestry of the Clarks is meager, vague and unsatisfactory. Back of John Clark, father of George Rogers, is only tradition; but this tradition seems clear and positive that his maternal ancestor who came to this country emigrated from England and that his name was John. From what part of England this John Clark came or who were his ancestors, there is no reliable information. Tradition has it that he settled on the James River in Virginia and became a planter; that either on the vessel coming over or soon after his arrival, he met and fell in love with a Scotch girl who became his wife and that she was "a red-headed beauty". The prevalence of reddish hair in the Clark family is probably traceable to this lady. (See note below)

There is uncertainty as to the date of this emigration and as to the history of the family for some time afterwards. The date has been vaguely mentioned as 'about 1620 or 1630'. It is known that John and Jonathan, descendants of John the emigrant and the red-headed Scotch lady were living in Drysdale Parish, King and Queen County, Virginia, before 1725 as this Jonathan married there in that year. If the date of emigration mentioned is correct, it would seem conclusive that these were the grandsons and not, as some have supposed, the sons of John the emigrant.....

But beginning with John and Jonathan of Drysdale, we pass out of the domain of tradition and can trace their history with a reasonable degree of certainty."

From CONQUEST OF THE NORTHWEST by Wm. H. English, 1895

Note,-

This account credits the red hair to Mary Byrd and has her marrying John Clark. Other records give her as the wife of John Rogers as we have indicated in this record.

Richard I came from England in 1627 when Capt. Francis West, brother of Lord De la Warr (1st Governor) was in charge of the Colony of Virginia.
Ps. 71 & 72, Vol. V. Va. Mag. of Hist & Biog.

Lt. Col. Richard Cocke of Virginia most likely came of a sea-faring environment. It was probably he who in 1627 was in Virginia master as purser of the ship "Thomas and John". In England during this same year, it was perhaps his father, Richard Cocke, who died in Devonshire and who "got his living by the sea."

Lt. Col. Richard Cocke was several times a member of the House of Burgesses and County Lieutenant of Henrico County. He amasses considerable means. Besides politics and planting, he was undoubtedly interested in shipping. His land grants in Henrico totaled 10,000 acres for transporting to Virginia some 220 persons. He lived at "Bremo", granted him in 1636. Adjoined "Malvern Hill" which he patented in 1639.

Wm. & Mary Quarterly, Vol. XXIV, re Col Cocke.

"His sons and daughters at one time or another occupied nearly every office of dignity & profit in the County." and "the most powerful families were the Randolphs, Cockes, Fones, Burds, Vernons, & Pleasantses."

She became an invalid and her husband took her abroad to the smas. They brought back Belgian weavers to weave tapestries for Selma Hall. It is said that she was very determined woman. They had many slaves on the Selma Hall estate and at one time Ferdinand objected to Julia giving orders in his absence saying that he would attend to matters outside of the house and she could handle household affairs. Sometime later a winter's supply of coal which was stored in an out-building caught fire while Ferdinand was away. Julia calmly let it burn without giving any directions to have it extinguished. When Ferdinand returned and asked her why she hadn't taken prompt action to save the coal she ~~had~~ reminded him of his admonition concerning her interference in affairs outside of the house. Ferdinand must have been considerably abashed.

FARRAR, Captain William Sr. son of Nicholas Farrar and 9.65

Born 1593 (?) in England, and arrived in Virginia, Aug. 1618

Lieut-Col. John

And probably others.

William Farrar or Farrar who came to Virginia in 1618, soon became a man of prominence. He was a commissioner (magistrate) for "The Upper Parts", a member of the Council, 1625-1633, or more probably until his death occurred some time prior to June, 11, 1637. He is commonly stated to have married Cicely, widow of Samuel Jordan, but there is no positive proof of this. The only other reference to the matter in the records is the statement that Mrs. Jordan had first engaged herself to marry Rev. Greville Pooley, and afterwards William Farrar and that the authorities in Virginia referred to those in England the question whether she could legally marry Farrar after her promise to Pooley, or whether the pre-contract made any subsequent engagement void. The result does not appear, but it is probable that William Farrar did marry Mrs. Jordan.

William was not mentioned in either his father's or his mother's will. The following attributed to an English authority on the family may account for it; - "We have all along thought that William Farrar, who went to Virginia, died young, i.e. unmarried; but now we know that we were wrong. I had only known that he was alive in Virginia in 1621."

The above taken from a letter from Isabel Mitchell Farrar written to Ellen Farrar Kennett (Hauser) Nov. 26, 1899

Other evidence seems to leave no doubt but that William married Cicely in spite of her previous engagement to the Rev. Pooley.

Nicholas Farrar Sr. was a leading member of the Virginia Company and was closely related to Robert Farrar, Bishop of St. Davids, who 'suffered death for the Protestant religion, being burnt at the stake, Mar. 30th, 1555'. He was an eminent merchant of London. He traded extensively to the East and West Indies and other parts of the world and was the friend of many of the eminent men of the day. Raleigh, Hawkins, Drake and Sandys were frequently his guests. At his house in St. Sythes Lane, parish of St. Benret Sherehog, "now in the possession of said Farrar" and on June, 1st, 1603, he bought from the same person for £20 "all that chamber now in the holding of said Wm. Allen, situate and being over the gate of the great messuage, now in the tenure of said Nicholas Farrar." The purchase of this "great Chamber over the gate," was, Farrar says, "for the meetings of the Virginia Company."

The Virginia Magazine of Hist. & Biog. Vol. VII, No. 3, Jan, 1900
Pp. 520

Carter's Life of Nicholas Farrar, Jr. (1892), gives the following in regard to Nicholas Farrar Sr. and his wife; -

"Nicholas Farrar, the elder, was a fair type of the great merchants of London, well born, loyal (he was 'written Esquire by Queen Elizabeth' in return for liberal assistance), hot-tempered, generous-hearted, a man of wide sympathies, gathering many notable men of the day round the hospitable table of his fine house in the City; a zealous Churchman, repairing and seating at his own expense his parish church of St. Sythes, and providing a morning preacher for same. Mr. Farrar's portrait by Janssen is to be seen at Cambridge, in the Master's Lodge of Magdalen College, a fine open face with uprightness and honesty in every line.)

Following is an abstract of the will of Nicholas Farrar, citizen and skinner, of London, Legacies; £300 to the erecting of a college in Virginia for the conversion of infidels' children unto Christian religion, to be disposed of at the advice of Sir Edwin Sandys and my son, John Farrar. To St. Thomas' Hospital, £10. To Christ's Hospital, £5. To St. Bartholomew Hospital £5. To Brydewell (Bridewell Hospital and prison), £5. To the poor of Harford (Hertford) where I was born, £10. To the Company of Skinners, three or four silver bowls to drink in, to the value of 20 marks, and 20 marks to make them a dinner. To my friend and partner, Sir Thomas Middleton, a ring. Other legacies to friends; to my cousin, Mary Stead, a ring of gold. To my daughter Farrar, my great gilt basin and ever. To Mary Collett, their daughter, £500. To the rest of my daughter Collett's children, £20 a piece. To my grandchild, Nicholas Farrar, £100. To my son, John, the house where I now dwell in St. Benret, Sherehog, but my wife Mary to enjoy the same as long as she lives. To my son, Nicholas, my house at Hertford called the Bell, after the decease of his mother. To my wife, Mary, one third part of all my goods. One other third to my sons John, Nicholas and Richard. To the poor, 75 gowns, which is my age.

Dated 25rd, March, 1619

Proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 4th April, 1620, by Nicholas Farrar, the son and executor ~~named~~ nominated.

Copy of an undated letter written by Anne Clark Thruston Farrar Belcher of 3617 Delmar Ave., (presumably St. Louis, Mo.) to Pete Hauser, wife of Thomas Hauser, son of Ellen Frances Farrar and her 2nd husband, Sam'l T. Hauser.

My dear Cousin Reta,-

I received your letter and the money and I am much obliged to you also for the filling out the meter. It was so well done and precise. There is to be quite a ceremony in December when a number of the cylinders and their contents will be presented for preservation in the Jefferson Memorial. It will all be type written on parchment, - Dr. Farrar's history and the records of his descendants and before it is inserted in the cylinder, the Missouri Historical Society will have the contents copied for reference in case any descendant wishes to see it.

I shall have also done in India ink a picture of Grandma Farrar from the portrait which is very handsome and which I think Aunt Ellen had a copy of. Mother was the family historian and I suppose I will carry it on as history has always been my pet reading. As you know, the Farrars have always been men of letters, from 1080 for it was Henri de Ferreris who helped William the Conqueror to compile his Doomsday Book, he, Henri himself, having 120 manors or holdings in many countys in England, - he, Henri, was the first Earl of Farrar & Derby - and they have played their part in England's well and England woe ever since.

The Derbys became the second branch and then have died out but the Earls of Farrar still live at Stanton Harold, de la Zukes, - the ancestral home of the Earls of Farrar.

Dear me, how my Grandma Farrar's descendants have scattered and so few know much of their kin, but I do know if any of you come through I should love to see you for I am clannish and I suppose know more about my family than any one else, now my dear father is gone, for he and I were just alike in so many things.

Give my love to Tom whom I have not seen since he was 8 years old or so.
Your affectionate cousin,

Anne C.F.Belcher

I think I am like Grandma Farrar and well named A.C.T.F.

From the Bristol Parish Vestry Books we find that Mrs. Richard Kennon long survived her husband, at least 39 years. On Dec. 7, 1720, the vestry record states "it is ordered that the ferry be continued to Mrs. Elizabeth Kennon the next ensuing year as formerly." The annual payment to her for the ferry was 2,500 lbs. of tobacco, the usual currency then, and there are 17 orders of payment, some semi-annually, the last being in 1755, or 39 years after her husband's death.

"Conjurer's Reclt", the early Kennon home, erected in 1685, is said to be the oldest surviving residence in Virginia. It is about five miles below Petersburg on the north side of the Appomattox River at the mouth of Swift Creek and occupies the peninsular or "neck" between them. The house is about 100 yards from the river and the yard is ornamented with handsome walls and cedar and magnolia trees. It is said to have been built of imported brick with walls almost three feet thick and embellished with carved walnut interior woodwork. In 1879 it was partially burned, the interior and furniture being destroyed. It passed out of the family years ago and in 1908 was owned by Mr. Lower from South Dakota and known as "The Brick House".

He wrote 'T' after his name as a distinctive mark and had it legalized by court ruling. Was a rugged individualist. Had extensive land grants and was a noted duellist and is "said to have killed 12 or 15 men in his various personal encounters....He was in the Battle of New Orleans (War of 1812)

Picture of John Smith T. and wife are in Missouri Historical Society Building in St. Louis, Mo. John F. Dabney's "Personal Recollections" contains a sketch of John Smith T.

His brother, Gen. Thomas Adams Smith, born in Essex Co., Va. Aug. 12, 1781, came to Missouri when it was a territory and was receiver of the general land office at Old Franklin. Gen. Smith died on his farm, called by him "Experiment" in Saline Co. 6/25/1844, aged 63. The town which preceded Columbia, Mo., was called Smithton in his honor. When the town was abandoned and moved to its present location, Gen. Smith said the new town should have a new name and suggested 'Columbia' and it was adopted by the Commissioners.

Col. Francis Smith was a vestry man and justice (Leade, I, pp. 393, 405); Major of Horse, 1753, and afterwards Colonel (Col. Vir. State Papers, I, p. 247) member of House of Burgesses for Essex, 1752-58 (Journal, Va. Leg. Hist. and Biog. III, p. 192; Gazette) (?)

His will dated 5 Mar. 1700; proved 15 Mar. 1762 (?) dispossessing of a large estate, mentions besides his children his wife Anne who received for her life in lieu of dower 'half of all my lands at the lower church in South Farnham Parish', other lands then in possession of her mother, Mrs. Tabitha Adams, widow of Ebenezer Adams of New Kent Co., eleven designated slaves, riding chair and horses, and other horses, thirty head of cattle, twenty sheep, hogs, farming implements, looking glass in the chamber over the hall; a dressing glass which stands in the lower chamber, two of my best beds and furniture; two black walnut tables; one dozen chairs now standing in the hall; all my plate and chin; half the kitchen furniture & my black walnut desk; friend Thomas Adams, a 'mourning ring of the price of two guineas', son Merviether 'choice of my swords', 'my books to be equally divided among my three sons'. Wife Anne, son Merviether and friend (brother-in-law Thomas Adams), executors. (Essex Records.)

A record taken from William & Mary College Quarterly, Vol. VI, No. 1, July, 1897, which gives Lucy Merviether as his first wife and not the mother of Francis Jr.

But according to information given to Mrs. Guy Richardson, of Helena, Mont., dau. of Ferdinand Beauregard Bennett, by Mrs. Letitia John Bennett Frost, - Col. Francis Smith Sr. of Essex Co., Va. married Lucy Merviether and she was the mother of his son, Francis Jr. Later, she married _____ Lewis and had a son Merviether Lewis, famous as Capt. Lewis of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Whereas the William and Mary data give Col. Francis Smith Sr. as the son of Capt. Nicholas Smith Jr., Letitia John Bennett Frost says he is the son of Thos. Smith Esq. and Susanna Borthurst, the former being the son of Sir Francis Corrington Smith from the ancient family of Ashlyn Hall, Hereford Co., Kent, Eng. and the latter being descended from Robert of Harsmanden Co. Kent, Eng. name being descended from Earl Borthurst of England.

Note, - The ancestry of Merviether Lewis should not be hard to check. Temporarily we will assume that the William and Mary College Quarterly is unbiased and holds authority over Letitia John Bennett, - so we are giving Col. Francis Smith's parentage as shown below.

Col. Charles Lynns Thruston was a student at William and Mary's College in 1754. In 1758 a Lieut. of Provincial under the immediate command of George Washington in the expedition of Gen'l Forbes against Ft. Duquesne, now Pittsburgh. Vestryman of Petworth Parish in Gloucester Co., Va. and while serving as such was elected their minister in 1767 and went to England to take his orders. Filled the pulpit until 1768 and resigned and moved to Frederick County, Va. in 1769 where he was the leading Episcopal minister and chief Dispenser of Justice for many years. He was a warm supporter of the Colonial cause. In 1776, after finishing his sermon one Sunday morning, he laid aside his robes and organized a Company of which he was elected Captain and immediately marched to join Washington in New Jersey.

He commanded at the battle of Piscataway near Perth Amboy on 3/8/1777 when his arm was badly shattered and he was carried off the field. In this engagement his son, Charles, was his aide and fought at his father's side. He was promoted to Colonel of one of the 16 Continental regiments which was consolidated with Gist's and Grayson's regiments, 4/27/1779 when he became a supernumerary.

His home was near Winchester and called Mount Zion. This he sold in 1809 and went west. For a time he stopped at Westpoint, Tenn. In 1811 was living near Natchez, Miss. but the climate did not agree with him and he went further south, purchasing a plantation a few miles below New Orleans where he died 3/21/1812. The Battle of New Orleans was fought over his grave.

Abstract of her will mentions that she purchased by deed dated 30 May, 1625, lands in Little Gidding in the names of her son, Nicholas Farrar and nephew, Arthur Woodenothe. Her son, Nicholas, to pay all debts out of the estate and statement that Arthur had released all his claim to her son, Nicholas. Nicholas to my Marie Collet, one of the children of Susannah Farrar Collett, £50 a year for 10 years. To her granddaughter, Margaret Collett, £50. The residue to her sons Nicholas and John. To her cousin, John Collett, £10. To her husband's niece, Marie Steed, a great silver salt and to her sister, Wright, £2 and to her cousin, John Farrar, their brother, £3

Dated July 29, 1628; proved July 12, 1634

Mary Woodenoth, of the ancient family of the Woodenoths, of Shavington, was a remarkable woman, gifted with the same power of impressing her personality on those around her, which was one of the most marked characteristics of her son, Nicholas. Her portrait hangs beside her husband's in the Master's Lodge of Magdalen College, Cambridge.

The firm, delicate lines of finely cut features, the exquisitely fair complexion, the noble and serious countenance, suit well the description which is given of her in the memoir of her son. "We are told that she was beautiful, bright-haired and fair, even to her eightieth year (at her death in 1654, she is said to have been in her 83rd year), highly educated, of a strong judgment, a wise and even temper, so that her choleric husband declared that in their five and forty years of married life she had never given him cause for anger; a woman who did not talk much, but whose word was law in her little world, and whose discreet, careful, charitable life was grounded in a deep love and study of the will of God."
